

Terms of Using the WEFF Platforms

The terms of use of the website include the terms related to the protection of personal privacy and an agreement between "you" as the user of the website, and "us" or "site" or "platform" or "WEFF" as the owner of this website.

1. Application of this Agreement

This agreement refers to the principles governing our access to and use of your personal information, compliance with which WEFF will be operative and binding upon your first visit to the website. If you do not wish to be bound by this agreement, please stop using this website now.

2. Connection with other agreements

In addition to our privacy policy, our other agreements on this website, including the "Terms of Service" and "Risk Warning" also apply to you and other users of the website. While using the website, you may come across several other agreements and declare your agreement to their provisions or the provisions of previous agreements may be changed or modified. Taking advantage of the features of our crowdfunding system requires acceptance of these agreements and terms governing your relationship with the WEFF platform.

3. Collection of your personal information

When using this website, you may be asked to enter certain information such as personal information, contact details, business information, bank account information, or educational and employment records, etc.

This platform may confirm and complete the information received from you by a third party (both real and legal). All this information – whether provided by you or confirmed and completed by other sources – is called "personal information".

Some of WEFF's main purposes for processing and storing your personal information are:

- Examining and evaluating the claims of entrepreneurs in the normal state and in the conditions where they are requesting capital.
- Verifying your personal identity in order to create an investor, startup or mentor account.
- Applying the necessary controls to prevent money laundering (checking some money transfers through WEFF)
- Processing payments made in connection with WEFF services
- Monitoring, improving and managing website information and services provided on it
- Carrying out some general research and analysis
- Providing information about a specific product or service
- Communicating with customers and ensuring their and other customers' satisfaction and helping WEFF to provide services

4. Your personal information will not be disclosed

Any of your personal information collected by WEFF and its affiliates will remain confidential and will not be shared with any third party except as follows:

- WEFF may share certain information with providers of certain services on WEFF, but will responsibly take precautions and inform service providers of the confidentiality of certain information.
- WEFF may share certain parts of your information with competent legal entities based on legal or judicial requirements.
- Sometimes it is possible to share some of your personal information with other parties as the case may be, with prior notice from WEFF.

5. Changes in ownership and control

WEFF may, over time, expand, downsize, or sell its business. And this is considered as the transfer of ownership and business. In this case, your personal information will be transferred to the new company with new ownership.

6. Security of users' personal information

WEFF makes every effort to take reasonable steps to protect and secure your personal information. However, the security of your online information is not fully guaranteed. Therefore, any liability for disclosure of your information that is not caused by WEFF's negligence or misuse is yours.

WEFF may want to access some of your information that is available on other sites such as social networks, and this will be achieved if you have given WEFF such permission. Also, we may transfer your user photo from other sites such as social networks to WEFF.

7. Use of cookies and log files

Cookies are small files that are stored in the computer's long-term memory and are only accessible to the websites that created them. As a server, we use cookies on users' computers, WEFF may also access these cookies in some cases. We may also collect some information such as operating system type, IP address, browser type, which are done to increase the quality of services on the platform.

You can personally manage the option to enable or disable cookies in your browser. Usually, the default of this option is that it allows the installation of these cookies and in some cases informs in notifications. It should be noted that you can delete cookies that are already installed on your computer. To see more details, you can use the HELP option in your browser menu. However, it is important to note that disabling or deleting cookies can prevent you from accessing the full features and related services on the website.

8. Communication between the user and WEFF

WEFF may, in some cases, closely monitor or record the ways in which users communicate with WEFF (including telephone calls or other electronic communications). Among these reasons, we can mention to improve the quality of service delivery, staff training and security issues. If communicating by email, you should keep in mind that since emails are not coded, they can always be reviewed on the Internet. Also, because the identity of the email sender cannot be independently verified by WEFF, you should never share your personal, security, or banking information in this way, even with WEFF.

9. Personal information changes

The information recorded on the design page cannot be edited after its approval. If you see that some of the information related to your design page on the WEFF website is not up-to-date and accurate, you can state these changes through documents and reports.

10. Apply corrections and changes

During your use of WEFF, changes or corrections may be made to this website from time to time. You will be notified of these changes through the newsletter. After applying these changes, the new version will be updated on the website, and your use of the website after that time means that you agree to those changes and modifications, and this means that the previous terms and agreements also apply. to the extent that they do not conflict with the new amendments and agreements; It is still true of you. In cases where these items overlap; Newer rules will prevail.

[END]